Description of event	The keynote lecture on “From Idea to Publication: Writing an Engineering Research Paper” aimed to introduce third-year engineering students to the complete process of research paper writing. The session covered key stages such as selecting a research topic, conducting a literature review, formulating research objectives, and writing the paper in a structured format. Dr. K. N. Pathan explained essential components like abstract, introduction, methodology, results, discussion, and referencing. Practical tips on avoiding plagiarism, using citation tools, and choosing suitable journals or conferences were also shared. Special importance was given to data presentation techniques and academic writing skills relevant for projects involving CFD, Static Structural Analysis, Experimentation and Analytical methods. The session concluded with a real-life case study and an interactive Q&amp;A session. Students found the lecture highly informative and valuable for starting their own research journey.
